Two salesmen were traveling together when their car broke down in the middle of nowhere. It was late and they could not do anything until the next day so they walked down the road to find a place where they could stay the night. They came to a house finally and the door was opened by a woman who told them she was a widow, living all alone, but that they might spend the night there. Several months later, one of the salesmen called the other and said, "Say, Bill, I have just received a letter from a small town lawyer and I don't understand".

"What's up?"

"Do you remember the widow who put us up one night?"

"Yes--"

"Did you by any chance visit her in her room that night?"

"I meant to tell you about that, Tom".

"And did you also happen to give her my name?"

"Well, now, I meant to explain that to you--"

"Never mind. The widow died and left me all her money."

Magistrate: "The witness says that you and your wife had some words."

Prisoner: "I had some, but didn't get a chance to use them."

"Mama, did you love to flirt when you were young?"

"I'm afraid I did, dear."

"And were you ever punished for it, mama?"

"Yes, dear, I married your father."

A big-time gambler had just died. The funeral was well attended by his professional friends.

In eulogy, the speaker said, "Spike is not dead. He only sleeps."

From the rear came a voice, "I've got $100 that says he don't wake up."

"I miss my wife's cooking-----every chance I get."

When a girl marries a man for his money, she may spend the rest of her life looking for a little change!

He: "Your husband is a brilliant looking man. I suppose he knows everything."

She: "Don't be silly. He doesn't even suspect."

A fat bald-headed playboy, whose bulk rose above the bar, remarked to the glamorous blonde seated next to him, "I'm really not this tall, I'm sitting on my wallet."

An old soldier, who was at one time a pigeon handler in the Signal Corps was standing on the veranda of a P.X. one day and a painfully thin young woman in shorts strolled by.

"The last time I saw a pair of legs like that" he murmured, "they had a message tied to them."

The owner of an exclusive nightclub was horrified to see a tourist sitting at a table in the restaurant with his napkin tucked into the collar of his shirt. "Tell him we don't do that here", he muttered to one of the waiters, "but don't hurt his feelings." The head waiter advanced upon his napkin-dressed customer with a polite smile.

"Shave or haircut Sir?" he asked.

Judge: "Have you ever earned a dollar in your life?"
Prisoner: "Yes, your honor, I voted for you in the last election."

Two men were talking about the programs on TV. "I don't know," said one, "my wife watches so many medical shows," the only time I can talk to her is during visiting hours."
